Bobby Kennedy thought the Mafia was behind his brother's assassination in 1963, revealed Jack Newfield, whose documentary Robert F. Kennedy: A Memoir airs tonight on the Discovery Channel.

"Bobby told [JFK adviser] Arthur Schlesinger he blamed 'that guy in New Orleans'—which meant [mob boss] Carlos Marcello," Newfield told us. "Bobby was intense about prosecuting Marcello as Attorney General. He deported him in 1961, indicted him when he returned and tried him in 1963." Marcello was acquitted the same day JFK was shot.

Bobby Kennedy himself was shot to death 30 years ago this week in L.A.
